Eyewitness Guides

Eyewitness Guide Sardinia

2003, PAPER, 224 PAGES, $20.00

A comprehensive guide to the island of Sardinia, featuring color photography, dozens of excellent maps and a synopsis of the island's attractions. (Item no. ITL183)

Grazia Deledda, Susan Ashe

After the Divorce

1995, PAPER, 174 PAGES, $17.00

In 1926 Grazia Deledda won the Nobel Prize for literature, making her, at the time, only the second woman to receive such an honor. This powerful and tragic tale of murder and infidelity is set, like many of her novels, on her native Sardinia. Evocative of the pre-Christian era in the Mediterranean, it tells of what happens when a suspected murderer learns from prison that his wife is remarrying. (Item no. ITL196)

Touring Club Italiano

Sardinia Map

MAP, $12.95

A colorful map of the island of Sardinia, at a scale of 1:200,000. (Item no. ITL259)

Michael Grant

The Ancient Mediterranean

1990, PAPER, 374 PAGES, $18.00

Grant explores the realms of archaeology, geography, art and economics to paint a picture of ancient Mediterranean societies, from the earliest times to the Roman empire, and their influence on western civilization. (Item no. MED10)

Luigi Barzini

The Italians

1996, PAPER, 352 PAGES, $15.00

The definitive portrait of the Italian people, a classic, scholarly essay on the Italian character. Though first published in 1964, it's still worth reading for its insight, grace and wit. (Item no. ITL05)

D.H. Lawrence

D.H. Lawrence and Italy

1997, PAPER, 512 PAGES, $18.00

A collection of D.H. Lawrence's travel writings on Italy, each very different in tone and wonderful. "Sea and Sardinia" is a nostalgic look at traditional ways of life on the island, "Twilight in Italy" an evocation of Lawrence's stay on Lake Garda and "Etruscan Places" a meditation on ancient lives. First published in 1916. (Item no. ITL62)

Paul Theroux

Pillars of Hercules

1996, PAPER, 509 PAGES, $15.95

Known for his wry wit, Theroux seems to have had an exceptionally good time on his tour of the Mediterranean. He sets off from Gibraltar and circles along the coastline on foot, horseback, train and boat, ending at the other pillar on the African side. (Item no. MED20)

D.H. Lawrence

Sea and Sardinia

1999, PAPER, 211 PAGES, $13.95

A marvelous account of a trip to Sardinia, evoking both the charms and travails of the then-remote island, and the personality of the author. It's a pleasingly exaggerated, accessible portrait of life on the island, circa 1921. (Item no. ITL349)
